++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Mainly cloudy, drizzle in west. Bright spells in the east.

Today:
Rather cloudy, with some mist and drizzle lingering across Argyll and the Northwest. Elsewhere dry, with some sunny intervals in the northeast, and perhaps also in the south later. Rather humid, and warm where it brightens up.

Tonight:
Staying cloudy across Argyll, much of the Northwest and the Isles with some mist and drizzle. Clear spells in south and east, but turning misty across Dumfries and Galloway.

Tuesday:
Cloud and drizzle becoming confined to the far northwest and Isles, with dry and sunny weather extending to most areas. Becoming very warm or hot in the sunshine.

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Wednesday will be mainly dry sunny and very warm or hot, but Shetland damp. Showers in west in evening. Thundery showers likely on Thursday and Friday.
